

CLAIMS

What is claimed is:

1. Waste holding tank for a mobile sanitary toilet system, the toilet system comprising a base section, a bowl section supported by the base section and a waste holding tank, the tank comprising a housing, the housing defining a tank interior and a tank exterior and comprising a vent opening at a first location of the housing, the opening forming a fluid communication between the interior and the exterior of the tank, characterized in that a vent conduit is provided for connecting the vent opening on the tank exterior at the first location with the exterior of the tank at a second location of the housing, the vent conduit leading at least partly through the interior of the tank without being in fluid communication with the interior of the tank.